A VIEW OF THE UNITED STATES:

HISTORICAL, GEOGRAPHICAL, AND STATISTICAL.

NOVEMBER, 1832.

By John Hayward.

I have examined Mr. Hayward's statistical work. It contains a great mass of valuable statistical and geographical matter, compressed into a small compass, and judiciously arranged. It must prove a useful and, I should think, popular manual of information.

New York, September 23, 1832.

G. C. VERPLANCK.

Mr. Hayward has submitted to me for examination a statistical view of the United States. I have been much pleased with his plan, and the condensed form in which a great variety of useful information is compressed. So far as I have been able to judge from a cursory inspection, his materials appear to be drawn from the best and most recent sources.

A VIEW OF THE UNITED STATES.

THE UNITED STATES.

THE discovery of the Cape of Good Hope in 1487 gave to the navigators of that age a great impulse for adventure. Christopher Columbus, a native of Genoa, a skillful navigator, and a man of bold and original genius, under the patronage of Isabella queen of Spain, departed from Palao on the 3d of August, 1492, on a voyage of discovery, in the hope of finding a western passage to the East Indies. He discovered the Bahama Islands, and landed on one of them, which he called St. Salvador, on the 12th of October in the same year. When the success of Columbus was known in Europe, the king of England dispatched two natives of Venice, John and Sebastian Cabot, father and son, on a voyage of discovery. They arrived in Newfoundland in June, 1497, proceeding thence they discovered the continent of America, and traversed its coast from the 57 deg. north latitude to Florida. On the discoveries made by the Cabots, the English founded their claim to the eastern part of North America.

America derived its name from Americus Vesputius, a Florentine, who, with an adventurer from Portugal, in 1499 visited the continent at Paria in the 5th degree of north latitude, and published on his return, an account of his voyage, and a description of the country. The first, but unsuccessful attempt to plant a colony within the limits of the United States, was made in 1502, in some part of South Carolina, by an illustrious Frenchman, Jasper Coligni, for the purpose of securing an asylum for the pretestants from the persecution of the catholics in France. In 1504 several navigators from France came to fish on the banks of Newfoundland.

In 1524 a Florentine, in the employment of France, visited this continent, and it is supposed that he entered the harbor of New-York. For many years following the coast of North America was visited by Europeans for the purpose of fishing, and trading with the natives, but not for settlement. In 1540 the French made an unsuccessful attempt to plant a colony in Canada. The gallant Sir Walter Raleigh made several unsuccessful attempts to plant a colony in Carolina, in 1584 and the three following years. His maiden queen Elizabeth called this country Virginia. The first direct voyage from Europe to New England was made by Bartholomew Gosnold in 1602. He gave the name to Cape Cod, and erected a fort on an island in Buzzard's bay, the ruins of which were lately visible.

In 1603 and 1605 Penobscot and Massachusetts Bays were explored, and the rivers on that coast discovered. In 1606, King James divided the country of Virginia, then considered as extending from the southern boundary of Carolina to the northern boundary of Maine, into two districts,—North and South Virginia; the former he granted, by letters patent, to Thomas Hanham and his associates under the style of the Plymouth Company; the other he granted to Sir Thomas Gates and his associates, under the style of the London Company. The members of these companies were principally merchants, whose objects were trade with the natives and the discovery of the precious metals. Before the date of these letters patent the king of France had granted to Sieur De Monts all the territory from New Jersey to Nova Scotia, then called Acadia. In 1604 the French made a settlement on the Bay of Fundy and called it Port Royal; and in 1608 they founded Quebec, the capital of Canada. Colonies being planted in many parts of the United States by people of various nations of Europe, the English, either by the right of prior discovery, or by the sword obtained jurisdiction over them all as early as 1664. Although these colonies from the time of their settlement to the treaty of Aix La Chapelle in 1748 were much annoyed by their French neighbours and the Indians, still they grew very rapidly and added much to the wealth and power of the British nation. Their settlements extended along the whole of their coast, but not far into the wilderness.

The settlements of the French reached from the mouth of the river St. Lawrence to Montreal. They had erected forts and trading houses on Lake Ontario, had planted New Orleans at the south, had discovered the river Mississippi, and claimed the territory on its borders with its tributary streams and its delightful valleys.

The efforts of the French to connect their northern and southern possessions by a line of forts along the lakes, the Ohio, and down the Mississippi, produced the war of 1754 which terminated in the capture of Quebec by the English, September 13, 1759; the possession of all the Canadian posts in 1760, and a cession by France to England of all the northern settlements belonging to the former in America, by a treaty of peace made at Paris, February 10, 1763. This war cost Great Britain and her American colonies much blood and treasure. Whilst the British looked down on the colonists with a spirit of pride and domination, the colonists, with the bold spirit of the New England fathers, counted their own resources, and learnt lessons of liberty.

In 1764 Great Britain commenced a series of measures for taxing her American colonies, without allowing them the right of representation in Parliament. The colonies opposed those measures with great firmness and eloquence, at the same time not abandoning their loyalty, until 1775, when, finding their country invaded by British troops, and forbearance no longer a virtue, they flew to arms, trusting in God and their own resources. The skirmish at Lexington on the 19th of April 1775, and the battle of Bunker Hill on the 17th of June following, told a story worthy of freemen. As early as September 5, 1774 a continental congress was held at Philadelphia. All the 13 colonies attended by their delegates, excepting Georgia. Peyton Randolph was chosen president, Charles Thompson, secretary.

This congress met again in May 1775 at the same place, when John Hancock of Boston, the proscribed patriot, was chosen president. On the 15th of June following this Congress elected George Washington, a delegate from Virginia, commander in chief of the American forces.

Soon after this, most of the colonies established governments of their own, acknowledging no source of power but the people, and expressed, by their delegates to the continental congress, their wish to be considered sovereign and independent states. On the 7th of June, 1776, a resolution to that effect was proposed to that body by Richard Henry Lee of Virginia, and seconded by John Adams of Massachusetts. A committee composed of Jefferson, Adams, Franklin, Sherman, and Livingston, was appointed to draft it; and on the 4th of July, 1776, the memorable Declaration of Independence was adopted by a band of patriots and heroes, the only survivor of whom is Charles Carroll of Carrollton in Maryland, who was born September 20, 1737.

The 13 states, united by ardent patriotism, courageously encountered the horrors and sufferings of a seven years' war, and under the guidance of the intrepid Washington, were rewarded with triumphant success. In 1782 the British made overtures of peace, hostilities ceased; and on the 3rd of September 1783 a treaty of peace was concluded at Paris by John Adams, Benjamin Franklin and Henry Laurens.

In 1787 a convention of most of the states met at Philadelphia to revise their old articles of confederation, and form a constitution better adapted to their present condition. A constitution was formed, which was afterwards sanctioned by the people of the several states, and which, with some amendments, is now in force.

This constitution connects the states more closely together by establishing a general and supreme government, composed of a legislative, an executive, and a judicial department. The first consists of a senate and house of representatives, and is styled the congress. The members of the house are chosen by the people, and hold their office two years. They are apportioned among the states according to the number of inhabitants, as ascertained every tenth year, deducting two fifths of the slaves. The ratio as established under the census of 1830, is one for every 47,700.

The senators are the representatives of the states in their sovereign capacity and are chosen for six years by the state legislatures, each choosing two. The executive power is vested in a president appointed by electors, of whom each state appoints a number equal to its representatives in congress, and also two more in such manner as the legislature may direct. The president is elected for four years: he is commander in chief of the land and naval forces; he nominates to the senate all officers of the general government; and with the advice and consent

VERMONT.

The territory of this state was originally claimed by Massachusetts, and afterwards both by New-Hampshire and New York. In 1777 the people inhabiting this territory declared themselves independent, and formed a government of their own. Although this fourteenth state was not admitted into the union until after the revolutionary contest was over, yet she vigorously resisted British oppression. Bennington, its oldest town, was chartered by Benning Wentworth, Governor of New Hampshire, in 1749. A range of mountains covered with spruce, hemlock and other evergreens divides this state nearly in its centre; hence its name; and hence the epithet "Green Mountain Boys," celebrated for their bravery in the war of independence.

From these mountains many rivers take their rise; the most important are, Otter Creek, Onion, La Moelle and Michiscoui, which empty into Lake Champlain, on the west; and West, White and Passumpsic, which pass to the Connecticut on the east. This state is very fertile and produces all sorts of grain in great abundance. Cattle of various kinds are raised here with great facility. Wool is becoming an important staple in this state. Manufactures flourish on many of the delightful streams of Vermont, and its hills produce marble of superior excellence. The scenery of this state is very romantic and beautiful; the air is pure and healthful; the people industrious, intelligent, hospitable. A trip to Middlebury, from any point of the compass, is exceedingly agreeable. The trade of this state on the west passes to New-York by Lake Champlain, the northern canal and Hudson river; that on the east to Connecticut river. Some of the trade of this state reaches Boston 110 miles S. E. of Windsor, and 210 miles S. E. of Burlington, on Lake Champlain; some also reaches Montreal 100 miles N. of Burlington. Freight from Burlington to New-York, 291 miles, $5 per ton.

The state is bounded north by Lower Canada, E. by Connecticut river, south by Massachusetts, and W. by New-York. Situated between 42° 44' and 45° North Lat. and 73° 16' and 71° 20' W. Longitude.

A rail-way from Boston to lake Ontario is in contemplation. An enterprise of this kind, well worthy the consideration of the intelligent citizens and capitalists of Massachusetts, New-Hampshire and Vermont, will greatly benefit those states, and make Boston a powerful competitor with New-York, for a large portion of the immense northern and western trade.

Vermont has 13 banks, whose aggregate capital is about a million of dollars. About $100,000 is annually raised in this state for the support of common schools. Vermont has a literary fund of about $25,000.

MASSACHUSETTS.

This state, the parent of all of the New England colonies, was first permanently settled by Europeans at Plymouth on the 22d of December, 1620, by a sturdy band of 101 independents, the persecuted subjects of king James the first of England. Another colony, under the style of the Massachusetts Bay colony, was planted at Salem, in 1628. These colonies remained separate till 1686, when both colonies were deprived of their charters. In 1692 they were united into one colony under a new charter.

The country, now the New-England states, was formerly called North Virginia, but owing to the favorable representations of it made by the celebrated John Smith, who visited Massachusetts bay in 1614, it has ever since, in compliment to its luxuriance and beauty, borne its present name.

During the Indian and French wars, Massachusetts expended much blood and treasure;—on her soil the first spark of American independence was lighted, and her arm was the strongest in the combat for its achievement. This state has about 40 millions of dollars invested in manufacturing stock; more than 20 millions of dollars in bank capital, and about 8 millions in insurance stock. A great variety and amount of manufactured articles are exported from this state; also fish, whale-oil, lumber, beef, pork and other productions of the sea and soil. Her literary, religious and charitable institutions are the pride of Massachusetts. Within a few years Boston alone has expended nearly two millions of dollars for objects of that character, exclusive of an annual expenditure of about $200,000 for the support of public and private schools.

At present Massachusetts has no school fund, but from the wisdom of her legislature no doubt can be entertained that one will soon be established from the sums lately received and still due from the national treasury.

Although Massachusetts cannot boast of her navigable rivers, canals and railways to facilitate the commerce of her capital; yet she can boast of the most beautiful bay on the map of the western world; of her noble streams for water power; of her luxuriant vales, of her granite hills, of her ships, and the material for building them; and of her gallant sailors who traverse every sea, and who well understand the uses of the hook, harpoon and cannon.

This state is bounded north by Vermont and New-Hampshire; east by the Atlantic ocean; south by Rhode Island and Connecticut; and west by New-York. Situated between 41° 31' and 42° 53' North Lat. and 73° 17' and 69° 48' W. Lon. Cape Cod Light House is in N. Lat. 42° 6' and W. Lon. 70° 7'.

RHODE-ISLAND.

The Father of this state was Roger Williams, a man remarkable for his benevolence, justice, and pacific policy. He was banished from the Plymouth colony for avowing the doctrine of the equal toleration of all religious sects in the same political community. He purchased lands of the Indians at Moosehauc, where, in 1636, with his followers he laid out a plantation, and which place, in grateful acknowledgment of the kindness of heaven, he called Providence.

In 1638, William Coddington and others followed Williams and settled the island of Rhode-Island. By the wise policy of Williams towards the Indians, and his respect to all sects of religion, this colony was rendered exceeding prosperous.

This smallest state in the union possesses great advantages for commerce and manufactures, and the enterprize of its citizens leads them to neglect neither. There is perhaps no place in the world where Tritons and spinning jennies strive so harmoniously for victory.

Rhode Island is celebrated for its mild and salubrious climate, which is thought peculiarly favorable to female beauty.

This state has a bank capital of upwards of 6 millions, and pays annually $10,000 for the maintenance of free schools. It is worthy of remark that this is the only state in the union which is without a written constitution. Its government is founded on the charter of Charles 2d in 1663.

This state is bounded north and east by Massachusetts, south by the Atlantic ocean, west by Connecticut. Situated between 41° 18' and 42° 1' N. Lat. and 71° 48' and 71° 1' W. Lon. Newport is one of the best harbours in the world, in Lat. 41° 29' N. and Lon. 71° 18' W. Pt. Judith Light. L. 41° 24' N. Lon: 71° 37' W.

CONNECTICUT.

The Plymouth Company in England granted this territory to the Earl of Warwick in 1630, who, in the following year, assigned it to Viscount Say and Seal, and Lord Brook, but it was first settled by the whites at Windsor, by a party from the Plymouth colony, in 1630. Hartford and Weathersfield were settled by parties from Dorchester, Cambridge, and Watertown, Massachusetts, in 1635 and 1636.

The Dutch claiming this country, as belonging to the New Netherlands, it was a subject of strife between them and the English until 1650, when a treaty of amity and partition was made. In 1638 a party from England planted a colony at New-Haven, which remained unconnected with that on Connecticut river until 1665, when they were united. Blessed with a salubrious climate and a fertile country of hill and dale, the people of this state probably enjoy as much happiness as is allotted to any part of the human family. Her population is always full, and although her domain is not extensive, no Atlantic state has sent so many of her children, or so large a share of intellectual wealth to the western country, as Connecticut.

If the love of liberty, literature and the arts, of social feeling and moral worth has an asylum on earth, Connecticut may boast that it is to be found within her bosom.

Connecticut has a bank capital of about 5½ millions of dollars, and is rich in the productions of her soil and industry, which find their way down her lovely rivers, to her commodious harbors; but her best capital is her School Fund, which amounts to nearly 2 millions, affording instruction to about 90,000 children annually.

This state is bounded north by Massachusetts; east by Rhode-Island; south by Long Island sound, and west by New-York. Situated between 40° 58' and 42° 1' N. Lat. and 72° 37' and 71° 43' W. Lon. Montauk Light house, at the east end of Long Island, is in Lat. 41° 4' N. and Lon. 71° 49' W.

NEW-YORK.

Henry Hudson, an Englishman, sailing in the Dutch service, discovered Long Island, the harbour of New-York, and the noble river that bears his name, in the year 1609. The Dutch built Fort Orange, at Albany, and commenced a settlement on Manhattan Island in 1613. The Dutch claimed all the country between the Connecticut and Delaware rivers and called it New-Netherlands. The English had always contested the right of the Dutch to this territory, and in 1664, Charles II. of England having granted to the Duke of York and Albany all the country between Nova Scotia and Delaware bay, the New Netherlands came into the possession of the English. Fort Orange was then called Albany, and Manhattan, or New-Amsterdam, New-York. New-York stands unrivalled by any of her sister states in the union of those things which constitute the prosperity of a people. Her central situation, her excellent climate, her fertile and extensive territory, her navigable rivers, her inland seas, her mighty cataracts and never failing streams; together with the proximity of her chief city to the ocean, all afford her the greatest advantages in agriculture, commerce and manufactures. What the hand of nature has withheld from New-York, the genius of her Clintons and Fultons has supplied. Already more than six hundred miles of canal intersect her beautiful domain, linking river to river, and mingling the waters of the Atlantic with those of the northern and western lakes. Already nearly one hundred steam boats move through her waters with an average speed of about ten miles an hour, propelling an aggregate burthen which would require a power of between four and five thousand horses. This state produces in great abundance all the staple commodities and luxuries common to the climate, the surplus of which, and large quantities from other states, find an easy access to the great mart of New-York. The salt springs at Onondaga Lake, at the villages of Salina, Syracuse, Liverpool and Geddes, produce a large revenue to the state; and the mineral waters at Ballston and Saratoga give health to many, and pleasure to all that visit them.

The rapid increase of this state in wealth and population, the magic growth of villages and cities along the lines of river, lake and canal communication, and the corresponding development of political and intellectual power, render the history of New-York in the highest degree valuable and interesting.

The enterprising Mr. Hugh White, from some part of New England, made the first settlement at Whitestown, Oneida county, 100 miles west of Albany, in 1784. At that time the country to the north and west of that place, even to the great lakes, was a dense forest inhabited only by savages and wild beasts. In 1830 the county of Oneida had a population of 71,326; bank and insurance capital $1,100,000, and 15 cotton factories employing 968 hands, making annually $525,000 worth of goods. The Oriskany woollen factory, in this county, makes annually $130,000 worth of goods. Utica, Rome and Whitesborough are the county towns. Population of Utica 8323, Rome 4360, Whitestown 4410.

The county of Monroe, 160 miles west of Whitestown (by the canal) has a population of 49,862. 50,201 acres of wheat were cut in this county in 1830, supposed to have averaged 20 bushels to the acre. The largest village in this county is Rochester, 7 miles S. of lake Ontario at the falls of Genesee river, in the towns of Brighton and Gates, and was first settled in 1812. This village has now a population of 9,269. 519,725 barrels of flour were shipped from this place on the canal and down the lake from August 20th 1828, to December 1st 1830.

In 1830, 1512 vessels arrived at New-York from foreign ports, of which 1366 were American, 92 British, 7 Spanish, 12 Swedish, 2 Hamburg, 5 French, 8 Bremen, 6 Haytian, 9 Danish, 2 Brazilian, 2 Dutch, and 1 Portuguese. The revenue of the customs, the same year, was about 13 millions of dollars. The number of passengers brought by the above vessels was 30,324. The number of arrivals at New-York from foreign ports in 1829 was 1310—passengers, 16064. At the port of New-York, in 1830, the amount of registered tonnage of American vessels engaged in foreign commerce was 234,169 tons: do. engaged in the coasting trade, 39,600 tons. Licensed vessels engaged in the coasting and river trade, 90,294 tons—and licensed for the fisheries 457 tons. In 1830 there were exported from N. Y. 304,352 barrels of wheat flour, 174,182 bushels of corn, 12,099 tierces flax seed, 23,765 barrels pot and pearl ashes, 104,940 bales of cotton, and 5,306 packages of domestic cotton goods.

This state is bounded north by Lower Canada, east by Vermont, Massachusetts and Connecticut; south by New Jersey and Pennsylvania, and west and north west by Upper Canada. Between 40° 30' and 45° N. Lat. and 72° 55' and 79° 50' W. Lon. Sandy Hook lighthouse, at the southern entrance of N. Y. harbour, is 18 miles from the city of N. Y. and in Lat. 40° 30' N. and Lon. 73° 54' W.

NEW-JERSEY.

This state was first settled by the Danes, at Bergen, about the year 1624. This country was inhabited by the Swedes and Dutch for many years. The soil of this state is not naturally well adapted to agricultural pursuits, much of the land being either marshy or sandy; yet its proximity to two of the largest markets in the United States, and the industry of its inhabitants have rendered it exceedingly productive of all sorts of fruits and vegetables common to the climate, together with grain and meats of various kinds. This state has many rivers navigable for small vessels. The beautiful fall of 70 feet perpendicular on the Passaic river at Paterson, 18 miles N. W. from New-York, and 15 miles N. of Newark, is finely adapted, and well improved for manufacturing purposes.

Amboy, in Lat. 40° 31' N. and W. Lon. 74° 11', at the mouth of the Raritan river, 23 miles from New-York; land-locked by Staten Island, and approachable from the sea by almost any wind, has one of the best harbours on the continent. This state has abundant mineral resources, particularly iron of an excellent quality.

This state has a bank capital of upwards of 5 millions; and in 1829 a school fund of about $246,000. From the school fund, and a tax on the bank capital, a liberal appropriation is made for common schools in this state.

This state is bounded north by New-York; east by the Atlantic ocean and New-York; south by Delaware bay; and west by Pennsylvania. Situated between 38° 57' and 41° 22' north Lat. and 75° 25' and 73° 52' W. Lon. C. May, opposite C. Henlopen, Del. L. 38° 56' N. Lon. 74° 37' W.

PENNSYLVANIA.

William Penn, the founder of this powerful state, was the son of Sir William Penn, an admiral in the British navy. He united himself with the society of Friends, then a persecuted sect in England. For services rendered by his father, king Charles the second, in 1681, gave him a tract of land in the western world, and called it Pennsylvania. Penn, with about 2000 followers landed at New Castle, on the Delaware, in 1682. and proceeding up the river, planned Philadelphia, "the city of brotherly love," and erected about 80 buildings in the same year. The piety, philanthropy, and wisdom of its founder, the fertility of its soil, the healthiness of its climate, the pacific disposition of the natives, and the lessons of experience derived by the settlement of other colonies in earlier days and under more rigorous skies, all conspired to render this colony the most prosperous of any of which history gives an account. Penn died in 1718 aged 74 years.

The resources of this state are immense; and the character of the people is well calculated to give them a proper direction. The beautiful Delaware, and other navigable waters of Pennsylvania, its canals and fine roads furnish Philadelphia with a great amount of domestic exports, and render it one of the most important marts of foreign and domestic commerce in the United States.

Pennsylvania is the greatest manufacturing state in the union, and Philadelphia takes the like rank among our manufacturing cities. This state yields to no other in the variety and extent of its mineral treasures, particularly in its exhaustless mines of anthracite and bituminous coal. It would also be unjust to omit honourable mention of the extensive and costly system of canals and railways, which are either completed or in progress, under the patronage of the state, for which, and other internal improvements 15 million of dollars are already expended or appropriated. The Bank capital of this state is $12,815, 334. Harrisburg, its capital town is 98 miles W. N. W. of Philadelphia.

This state is bounded north by New-York; east by New Jersey; south east by Delaware; south by Maryland and Virginia; and west by Virginia and Ohio. Situated between 39° 43' and 42° 12' N. Lat. and 72° 35' and 80° 26' W. Lon. Cape Henlopen, at the south entrance of Delaware bay, is in Lat. 38° 55' N. and Lon. 75° W.

DELAWARE.

The first Europeans that settled this state were a party of Swedes and Finns, who, under the patronage of Gustavus Adolphus landed at Cape Henlopen in 1627. They purchased lands of the Indians on both sides of the river Delaware, and settled themselves at Lewistown, and at the mouth of Christiana Creek, near Wilmington. In 1655 the Dutch took possession of this country, and retained it until the New-Netherlands were subjugated by the English in 1664. This country was formerly called the "Territories" and afterwards the "three Lower Counties on Delaware" and for many years was under the jurisdiction of Pennsylvania.

The name of this state, of the bay and river, is derived from Lord De la War, one of the first settlers of Virginia. This state is generally low and level, is chiefly agricultural, and produces all the staples and luxuries common to its climate, particularly wheat, of which large quantities are floured and exported. The people of this state have always been as celebrated for their patriotism as the "Delaware regiment" was for its bravery.

An important work has lately been completed, the Chesapeake and Delaware canal, which crosses the northern part of the state, and unites the two great bays by sloop navigation.

This state has a school fund of $170,000. No district is entitled to any share of this fund, that will not raise, by taxation, a sum equal to its share of the income of the fund. Bank capital $1,050,000.

This state is bounded north by Pennsylvania; east by Delaware river, Delaware bay, and the Atlantic ocean; and south and west by Maryland. Situated between 38° 29' and 39° 50' N. Lat. and 74° 56' and 75° 40' W. Lon.

MARYLAND.

About 200 Roman Catholics from England, under a grant from Charles the first to Lord Baltimore, were the first white settlers in this state. They arrived at the mouth of the Potomac in February, 1634, and purchased of the Indians a large village where St. Mary's now stands: Lord Baltimore died in 1676, much honoured and beloved.

This colony was an asylum for the persecuted of religious sects from all parts of the world; which circumstance, with the hospitality of the natives, the fruitfulness of its soil, and the mildness of its climate, tended greatly to its early growth and prosperity. This state is well watered by many rivers emptying into its spacious Chesapeake bay, affording many facilities for the navigation of large and small craft. The soil of this state is adapted to the growth of all sorts of grain, and other commodities suited to its latitude. Its exports of flour and other bread stuffs are immense; tobacco is also a staple article.

The genuine white wheat, and the bright kites foot tobacco, are said to be peculiar to Maryland. Its beautiful capital city, Baltimore, is now an important mart of trade; and when her splendid internal improvements are completed, will be one of the most favourable positions for foreign and domestic commerce in the U. S. Cape Henry, the S. point of entrance into the Chesapeake bay is in N. Lat. 36° 58' and W. Lon. 75° 55'.

The capital of this state is Annapolis, 30 miles S. of Baltimore. Bank capital about 10½ millions. The school fund is derived from $75,000 paid by the U. S. for advances made by Maryland during the late war, and by a tax of 20 cents on every $100 bank capital.

This state is bounded north by Pennsylvania; east by Delaware, and the Atlantic ocean; south and west by Virginia. Situated between 38° and 39° 43' North Lat. and 75° 15' and 79° 25' west Lon.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.

In the year 1790 the states of Maryland and Virginia ceded to the U. S. the territory of this district for the purposes of a national capital; and in 1800 it became the seat of the general government of the United States.

This district is delightfully situated on both sides of the Potomac. The land is finely elevated, rather sterile, but pleasantly diversified by hill and dale. The climate is esteemed very healthy. The mean temperature is about 55° of Fahrenheit. The city of Washington is not only the capital of the nation but also of the district. It is under the immediate government of congress. Georgetown and Alexandria are within its limits.

The capital is in Lat. 38° 52' 45" N. and 76° 55' 30" W. Lon. from Greenwich. The Capitol in Washington is a massive building of the Corinthian order, of free-stone, about 350 feet in front, which, with the president's house, and offices for the several departments, is in a style suited to the convenience and dignity of their objects.

The English made an inroad upon this district and either destroyed or much damaged the public buildings at Washington on the 24th of August 1814. The trade of this district is considerable; but it will doubtless be much augmented when the canal from Washington to the Ohio is completed.

The Congress of the United States meets at Washington on the first Monday of December annually, unless it is otherwise provided by law.

VIRGINIA.

Three ships with one hundred and five persons, under the command of Christopher Newport, in the service of the London Company, having on board Captain Gosnold and other men of standing, arrived from England at the mouth of the Chesapeake bay on the 26th of April, 1607. On the 13th of May following they landed and settled at Jamestown, on James river. The object of these adventurers was partly curiosity to see a new race of beings; but chiefly to acquire wealth by finding silver and gold, with which this country was supposed to abound. Among these adventurers was John Smith, a man of great boldness of character, and one who had been well schooled in the knowledge of human nature both by travelling and adversity.

North America was then a wilderness, inhabited only by a race of men who had no written language, and no tradition whereby their origin can be known. They lived in tribes, scattered over the country, each governed by a chief, or king. They subsisted by hunting and fishing, and by cultivating small quantities of Indian corn. They were darker in color than the Spaniard, but not so black as the negro.

They were unacquainted with the arts, and even with the use of metals. Their weapons of war were a bow and arrows, a stone hatchet, or tomahawk, and a club. They were brave, and susceptible of all the best and worst feelings common to humanity. The colonists at first suffered exceedingly from their own improvidence, and the conduct of the natives towards them. Were it not for the extraordinary exertions and enterprize of Smith, and the kindness of Pocahontas, the daughter of Powhatan, a powerful Indian king, this embryo of a Herculean nation would have perished. About the year 1613, Pocahontas married Mr. Rolfe, a respectable Virginia planter. They went to England, and after receiving from the king and queen the honors due to her rank, and their acknowledgments for her valuable and disinterested services, she died, leaving one child. The virtues and graces of this amiable woman will always live in American story; among the best sons of Virginia are those who count with pride the drops of her blood circulating in their veins. In 1620 and 1621 one hundred and fifty young women were sent from England and sold to the planters as wives, at prices varying from 100 to 150 pounds of tobacco, then worth three shillings the pound. About this time twenty negroes were landed, from a Dutch vessel and sold for slaves!

In 1688 the population of Virginia was about 60,000. The face of this country is much diversified. The part towards the sea is low and level: some of it is marshy: to the west it rises by degrees and becomes mountainous. The soil is quite productive, and large exports are made from this state of flour, corn and tobacco.

This state is intersected by many beautiful navigable rivers, of which the Potomac, Shenandoah, James and Rappahannock are the most considerable. Virginia, often called the "Ancient Dominion," is celebrated for her mines and minerals; for her curious caves, springs, and natural bridges; for the urbanity and intelligence of her citizens; for her seconding the movements for American Independence; and, above all, for her being the mother of the Father of his country.

This state is bounded north by Pennsylvania and Maryland, north east by Maryland; east by the Atlantic ocean; south by North Carolina and Tennessee; and west by Kentucky and Ohio. Situated between 36° 33' and 40° 39' N. Lat. and 75° 35' and 83° 29' W. Lon.

This state has a bank capital of $5,607,000, and a Literary Fund of $1,233,523. $45,000 of this fund is annually appropriated to the education of the poor. This state has also a fund devoted to internal improvements of $2,100,591. The whole capital employed within this state, in internal improvements, is about 3½ millions.

NORTH CAROLINA.

About the year 1645, a number of Virginians took possession of the country north of Albemarle Sound. They appear to have lived without much regard to law. In 1661 a settlement was made near the Clarendon river by adventurers from Massachusetts, which was abandoned by them in 1663, and their place was soon after supplied by emigrants from Barbadoes. North and South Carolina were included in one grant from Charles the 1st in 1630, under the name of Carolina.

About 1675, two governments were established in Carolina under their present names, yet both were under the direction of the same proprietors until 1729. This country is low, level, and exceedingly marshy for 50 or 80 miles from the sea, it then becomes mountainous.

This state produces cotton, rice, tobacco, wheat, corn, fine oak and pitch pine timber. Much tar and turpentine are made in this state. Many of its rivers are navigable for a considerable distance, for such vessels as can pass the bars at their mouths.

It is the misfortune of North Carolina that she has no good harbors. A still greater misfortune is the unhealthiness of her seaboard generally. The hilly and mountainous tracts, however, enjoy a salubrious climate. There is an uncommon variety of climate and productions within the limits of this state. Gold has of late years been found in large quantities, and it is now believed that North Carolina is the centre of the great gold region of the United States.

By a report of the directors of the mint to Congress for 1831, it is stated that there was received from N. Carolina, $294,000 worth of gold; from Virginia, $26,000; and from Georgia, $176,000. Alabama and Tennessee furnished gold bullion to the amount of about $2,000; "indicating, (as the report remarks,) the progressive development of the gold region." This section of country is naturally divided into three zones, presenting very distinct and appropriate features. The first is near the sea, and quite unhealthy. The second is the sand hill tract, interspersed with some valuable river alluvial land. The third is the hilly and mountainous tract, which is the most extensive and fertile portion. The latter and middle tracts are as favorable to health as any section of our country as low as forty degrees north.

Capes Hatteras, Fear, and Look Out are on this coast. Hatteras is in Lat. 35° 15' N. and Lon. 75° 30' W. Much of the trade of this state passes to South Carolina and Virginia.

This state has a bank capital of $3,700,000, and a common school fund of $70,000. The "Great Dismal Swamp" in this state, covering about 140,000 acres, extends from Albemarle, to Pamlico Sound. A canal of 22½ miles long, 38 feet wide and 5½ feet deep passing through this swamp is in operation and greatly facilitates the trade of the state.

This state is bounded north by Virginia: east by the Atlantic ocean, south by South Carolina, and west by Tennessee. Situated between 33° 53' and 36° 33' North Lat. and 75° 45' and 84° W. Lon.

SOUTH CAROLINA.

The territory of this state and North Carolina was in the same grant from King Charles I. in 1630. In 1670 the governor of Carolina planted a settlement at Port Royal, or Beaufort. The Dutch, French and English, all from different motives, made settlements in South Carolina. This country, for more than 100 miles from the sea, is low, abounding with swamps and marshes. About 150 miles west of Charleston is the ridge, a tract of high land, beyond which the country becomes much elevated.

This state has many boatable rivers, which, with its safe and convenient navigation among a great number of fertile sea islands, makes Charleston a city of much commercial importance. The soil of this state is various, producing cotton, rice, indigo, tobacco, wheat, corn, fine timber, a great variety of fruits, medicinal plants and dyestuffs.

South Carolina is eminently an agricultural state: in each of its various divisions of soil, peculiar plants can be reared in abundance. The climate has the heat of the tropics, and the changeableness of more northern skies. This state is noted for its patriotism during the struggle for independence, and for the hospitality of its inhabitants.

The character of the people of this state is perhaps more definitely formed than that of any part of the U. S. Warm, generous and brave, they are also passionate and indolent.

Bank capital $6,631,833. An annual appropriation is made by the legislature of about $40,000 for the support of free-schools. Charleston Light, L. 32° 44' N. Lon: 79° 40' W.

This state is bounded north and north east by North Carolina; south east by the Atlantic ocean; and south west by Georgia. Situated between 32° and 35° 10' North Lat. and 78° 30' and 83° 10' West Lon.

GEORGIA.

In 1732, some benevolent gentlemen in England concerted a project for planting a colony in the southern part of the territory included in the Carolina charter, for the purpose of transporting thither the indigent subjects of Great Britain, and the persecuted protestants of all nations. General James Oglethorpe was a great promoter of this philanthropic scheme. In 1773, a number of emigrants arrived and settled at Yamacraw bluff, or Savannah. By the liberality of the proprietors in extending their patronage alike to all classes of emigrants, as early as 1740 the number of settlers was 2498.

The Alleghany and Apalachian mountains terminate in this State. They extend north through the Carolinas, Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania, to the Catskill in New-York.

It is thought that the diversity of soil is greater in Georgia than in any other single state in the union. About one half is flat, alluvial land, the residue hilly or mountainous, and abundantly fertile. Many valuable tropical productions can be cultivated in this state. Oranges, olives, figs, and other articles, which are strangers at the north, are easily raised. The flat land is, however, like that of Carolina, quite unhealthy. This state is bounded north by Tennessee; north east by South-Carolina; south east by the Atlantic ocean; south by Florida, and west by Alabama. Savannah and Augusta are its chief marts of trade. Cotton and tobacco are its staple articles.

This state has a bank capital of $6,882,349, and considerable funds for the support of academies and common schools.

Two considerable tribes of Indians reside partly within the chartered limits of this state, the Cherokees and Creeks. The Cherokees have made more rapid advances in the arts of civilized life than any other tribe of N. American Indians. In 1827 the population of this tribe was 13,563. They owned 1,277 slaves. Their increase for 6 years was 3,563. In 1801 the Mission at Spring Place was established; since which time many others have been brought into successful operation.

In 1827, 500 native children attended the missionary schools, all learning the English language.

Situated between 30° 19' and 35° North Lat. and 80° 47' and 85° 42' West Lon.

ALABAMA.

This state is bounded north by Tennessee; east by Georgia; south by Florida and the gulf of Mexico; and west by Mississippi. Between Lat. 30° 12' and 35° N. The face of this state is much diversified, and its soil differs in quality from the best to the worst. That part of the state that lies along the gulf of Mexico is low, marshy and sandy, and is unhealthy: about 10 miles from the coast the country becomes more elevated and more healthy, but less productive. As in this section of country generally, the land decreases in value on receding from the rivers. This state abounds in rivers, some of which are boatable for a great distance. The most important of these are the Tombigbee, Alabama and Tennessee. The latter passes through the northern section of the state; and the two former, after meandering through nearly the whole extent of the state, fall into Mobile bay, near the town of Mobile.

All parts of this state are productive of maize; and small grain is raised in its hilly and northern parts. Cotton is the chief staple. A great variety of fruits are easily cultivated here, such as the apple, pear, peach and plum; and even the fig and pomegranate in the lowest latitudes.

Mobile, in N. Lat. 30° 40' and W. Lon. 88° 11', is the mart of trade of this state. It is a place of increasing importance, but its growth is impeded by the sand bars at the mouth of its harbor.

The capital of this state is Tuscaloosa, 226 miles E. of N. from Mobile. This state has a bank capital of upwards of a million, and a large fund for internal improvements. Congress has been liberal to Alabama in granting to her great resources for the advancement of education.

MISSISSIPPI.

This state takes its name from the great river which forms the chief part of its western boundary. Its soil is various. Two-thirds of the state are supposed to be covered with pine forest, and only about $\frac{1}{3}$ part is either bluff, or river alluvial; this portion of the soil is however of remarkable fertility. It is chiefly confined to the west and south west parts of the state, and these accordingly contain a large share of the white inhabitants, leaving the northeastern part to the almost exclusive possession of the Indians. There is a sea coast of about 80 miles, but not a single harbor, so that New Orleans is the mart of the state. This state has a large range of Latitude, and its climate is quite variable; the thermometer at Natchez has stood as low as 12 above zero of Fahrenheit. The seasons are however generally mild and warm. Cotton is the great staple; the fig abounds south of 32°, but the orange is not entirely safe from occasional frost. The natural and exotic productions of the soil are innumerable. Among the animals, the alligator may be mentioned as being often found in the streams. Mississippi was formerly a part of Georgia. Perhaps no place will be more appropriate than this for a brief description of the basin of the Mississippi. This immense territory is believed to comprise an extent of more than 1,200,000 square miles, the whole of which is drained by the Mississippi and its confluent, and the united mass poured through the delta of Louisiana into the gulf of Mexico. The greatest length of the Missouri, from its remotest source, to the gulf of Mexico, is estimated at 4,500 miles; that of the Mississippi proper at 2,700. The whole basin may be divided into 4 great valleys; those of the Ohio, the Upper Mississippi, the Missouri, and the Lower Mississippi. The Ohio valley is a vast inclined plane, into which the chief river and its tributaries have worn deep channels. Two very remarkable facts should be noticed. The one is that all that part of this tract above Pittsburg, is at least 200 feet above lake Erie, and if a channel should be formed from that place to the lake, the gentle waters of the Ohio would leave their present bed, and rush in a torrent to swell the St. Lawrence. The other fact is that the waters of this valley do not flow in the bottom of the real slope of the inclined plane; that bottom is indicated by the course of the Illinois river. This great valley has a broken, and in the south east a mountainous surface; generally it has a temperate climate, and a richly fertile soil. Its staples are wheat, and the other cereal gramina. The Upper Mississippi valley is widely different from the preceding. The climate is colder; and here we enter upon those boundless prairies, which produce not a single tree, and are in general suitable only for the pasture of cattle. Vast tracts around the head waters of the Mississippi are only a marshy plain. The waters have a sluggish descent, and the region is of course imperfectly drained. This valley has little to invite settlers in comparison with the beautiful countries of the Ohio, and forms a gradual approach to the next subdivision of the Mississippi basin. The Missouri valley is by far the most extensive of the four valleys, containing nearly one half the surface of the whole basin. Here may be observed the muddy nature of the water, and another curious fact, that all the great tributaries of the Missouri flow from its right bank, and only unimportant streams from the left. But the chief circumstance which deserves to be mentioned of this valley is, that with the exception of narrow tracts along the margins of the rivers, the whole of this vast territory is one boundless prairie. In summer it is described as an arid waste, and in winter the bleak winds from the north sweep over it without obstruction. It is however represented to be abundantly stored with valuable mineral productions, as coal, iron, &c. The valley of the lower Mississippi is the last of these great valleys, and is perhaps, of all parts of the U. S. the most diversified in surface, climate, soil and productions. On the margin of the rivers is some of the richest land in the world; then follow impenetrable swamps and morasses; farther on, a beautiful undulating, and wooded territory, while over other tracts those interminable prairies extend, which seem only intended for the dwelling of the buffalo and the deer. In these last much resemblance is found with the steppes of the interior of Asia: among other things, the fact that some of the rivers as the Arkansas, Red, &c. are made brackish by the extensive beds of salt over which they roll. Natchez, the principal commercial mart of this state, is situated on elevated ground on the left bank of the Mississippi, in N. Lat. 31° 33' and W. Lon. 91° 25'.

The only bank in this state is at Natchez. Its capital is $1,000,000 and has, with its branches, exclusive banking privileges until 1840. Its dividends, for several years past, have averaged nearly 12 per cent per annum. This state has a literary fund of about $30,000, but no part of it is available till it shall amount to $50,000. As yet no system of primary schools has been adopted in this state.

The Choctaw and Chickasaw tribes of Indians own more than half of the territory of this state.

This state is bounded N. by Tennessee; E. by Alabama; S. by the gulf of Mexico and Louisiana; W. by Louisiana and the Arkansas territory. Between Lat. 30° 10' and 35° N. and Lon. 88° 10' and 91° 35' W.

LOUISIANA.

There is perhaps no portion of the world, of the extent of Louisiana, which has so great a variety of soils, or so many water courses within its territory. This state has about six million acres of alluvial land of superior excellence; the residue of her soil, about 24 million acres, consisting of pine forests, prairie, river inundated land, and sea marsh, is, for the most part, unfit for agricultural purposes.

There is but little land of a medium quality in Louisiana: it is generally either extremely fertile, or entirely worthless; and from the vast proportion of the soil which can never be used for agricultural purposes, it can never be expected that this state should support a population equally dense with those of the northern states. It is observable that the settlements in Louisiana are not in spots, or groups, but in lines or strips, along the margins of the rivers. Extremes of manners prevail as well as of soils; from the highest degree of luxury and refinement in the rich planters near New Orleans, to the semi barbarism of the wild hunters of the buffalo and the deer, upon the boundless prairies of the south west. Throughout the state there is nearly an equal mixture of the French and American population, but the latter is fast gaining ground. Louisiana has set her sister states the example of leaving the English law, and forming for herself a valuable code, modelled upon the civil law.

The Mississippi river passes the whole length of this state, and on its left bank, about 105 miles from the sea, stands New Orleans, the great store house of a large portion of the productions of this interesting section of the western world. New Orleans was first settled by the French, about the year 1717. It is 304 miles, by water, below Natchez, 1148 below St. Louis, 977 below the mouth of the Ohio, 1480 below Cincinnati, and 1929 miles below Pittsburg.

From the mouth of Red river to Natchitoches, Lon. is 186 miles; from the mouth of the Tennessee, to Florence, Al. 300; and from the mouth of the Cumberland to Nashville, is 203 miles. Chillicothe, Ohio, is 45, and COLUMBUS 90 miles, on the Scioto river, from Portsmouth on the Ohio. From St. Louis to the head of the Mississippi is 1618, and from that place to the supposed source of the Missouri, is 3,235 miles.

Although the climate, at the outlet to the ocean, of the almost boundless waters which unite at New Orleans, is exceedingly unfavorable to health in summer months—and the efforts to attract the trade of this immense region to the east and north, by canals and rail roads, through a country affording unequalled facilities for projects of that nature, are great and untiring; still New Orleans must remain one of the first marts of commerce in the world. The amount of domestic produce and manufactures exported from New Orleans in the year 1818, was $16,771,711.

The freight of goods up the Mississippi and Ohio from New Orleans varies according to the state of the waters. When the rivers are most favorable, 50 cents per cwt. is the usual price to St. Louis and Cincinnati. Insurance from New Orleans to those places, about $\frac{1}{4}$ per cent.

This state comprises the southern part of a large tract of country purchased by the U. S. of France in 1803. The river Mississippi was discovered by two French Missionaries in 1673. The country was afterwards explored, and, in honour of Louis the XIV. was called Louisiana.

This state has a bank capital of about $9,000,000. The capital invested in the cultivation of the sugar cane is supposed to amount to 30 millions of dollars. 50,000 hogsheads of sugar are considered an average crop, and 5 per. cent. is considered an average profit. The number of steam boats actually running on the Mississippi and its tributary streams in 1830 was 213. The first steam boat on these waters commenced running in 1812. By legislative enactment nearly $40,000 are annually appropriated to the education of the poor.

This state is bounded N. by the Arkansas territory; E. by Mississippi; S. by the gulf of Mexico, and W by the Mexican states. Between Lat. 29° and 33° N. and Lon. 89° and 94° W.

TENNESSEE.

This state was first settled by the whites in 1765, and was formerly a part of North Carolina and ceded by that state to the United States in 1789. In consequence of a part of this state being very low, and a part of it very high land, the soil and climate are more various than in any other portion of the United States whose difference of latitude is only 1° 40'. The soil of this state is generally very luxuriant, and produces large crops of cotton, wheat, rice, and tobacco.

There are probably few tracts of country in the U. S. more finely watered than Tennessee: it is completely veined by navigable rivers. Being remote from the sea, it is not exposed to sudden changes in temperature; the winters are quite mild, so that it has been observed that the season of vegetation lasts at least three months longer here than in Maine or New Hampshire. The Indians who still reside here are among the best specimens of the sons of the forest; so much have industry and civilization improved their manners.

Its chief rivers are the Mississippi, which washes its western borders; and the Tennessee and Cumberland, which rise in or near the Cumberland mountains, and after meandering through a large tract of country fall into the Ohio, a few miles above the junction of that river with the Mississippi.

Its trade is down the Mississippi to New Orleans. Nashville is a considerable place of trade, 430 miles N. E. of Natchez, and 480 miles N. N. E. of New Orleans, by the Jackson road.

Bounded north by Kentucky; east by North Carolina; south by Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi; and west by Mississippi river. Between 35° and 36° 40' North Lat. and 81° 45' and 90° 3' West Lon.

KENTUCKY.

This state is bounded north by Ohio and Indiana; east by Virginia; south by Tennessee; west by Illinois and Missouri: between 36° 30' and 39° 10' North Lat. and 81° 45' and 89° West Lon. This territory was a part of Virginia until 1792, when it became a state. The climate is very fine, and the soil superior for agricultural purposes.

The first white settlers removed to Kentucky in 1775, and its growth has been ever since exceedingly rapid. The external appearance of things is so inviting, that it has been called the "garden of the west." It is richly wooded, and has an immense variety of flowering plants and shrubs. Nor is this beauty deceptive, for a large part of the state is covered with a deep strong soil. Nearly the whole country rests on a lime stone foundation, into which the rivers have worn deep channels, of course leaving the banks bold and precipitous. In the summer, there is in many parts, great difficulty in procuring fresh water. Till steam boats navigated the Mississippi, almost all the salt used in these regions was obtained from salt springs, or licks, so called, because the buffaloes and other wild animals used to come to these springs and lick up the earth around that was saturated with salt.

Its staples are wheat, corn, cattle, hemp and salt. Its commercial outlet is by the river Ohio, which washes the whole of its north-western boundary. The Kentucky, Sandy, Licking and Cumberland, are its principal rivers. They take their rise in the Cumberland mountains, and fall into the Ohio river.

Louisville, in Lat. 38° 3' N. and Lon. 85° 30' W. above the rapids of the Ohio, 132 miles below Cincinnati and Lexington, 76 miles E. of Louisville, are the principal inland marts of the commerce of this state. A canal passes around the falls of the Ohio at Louisville. Louisville is one of the most promising towns in the western country.

OHIO.

This state was formerly a part of the north western territory. It is bounded S. E. by the Ohio river, or Virginia; south by Ohio river, or Kentucky; west by Indiana; north by Michigan territory and Lake Erie, and E. by N. by Pennsylvania. Situated between 38° 30' and 42° N. Lat. and 80° 20' and 84° 43' W. Lon.

The first permanent settlement of the whites in this state was commenced in 1788, at Marietta, near the junction of the Ohio and Muskingum rivers in Lat. 39° 25' N. and Lon 81° 18' W. 172 miles below Pittsburg.

The waters of the Ohio and its tributary streams, with those of Lake Erie afford this state peculiar privileges. The best proof that can be given of the exuberance of its soil and the industry and enterprise of its people is to state the fact, unprecedented in the settlement of any country, that in 1783 this territory was inhabited only by savages; and that in 1830 it had a population of nearly a million, enjoying all the comforts and luxuries of civilized life in profusion, without a slave to teach them the blessings of liberty; and with minds and means to foster good schools, the bane of slavery.

This state is eminently agricultural, and has many and various staples; wheat, however, is the principal. Some ancient fortifications have been found in this state, and other traces of a people far exceeding in civilization any of the present tribes of N. American Indians. This state has a school fund of $150,000; and one mill on a dollar of the estimated property of the state is annually levied and appropriated to the maintenance of common schools. One thirty sixth part of the land in this, and other new states in the west, is devoted to purposes of education.

The trade of this, with the Atlantic states is very considerable; and is carried on by the rivers Ohio and Mississippi to New Orleans; and by lake, canal and river navigation to New York. Cincinnati, in Lat. 39° 6' N. and Lon. 84° 22' W. was first settled in 1789, and has become one of the most important inland depots of commerce in the world. From 15th February, 1830, to February 15, 1831, there were 1277 vessels arrived at Cincinnati, and 1263 departed from thence. When the Baltimore and Ohio rail way and canal are finished much of the trade of this state will go to Baltimore.

Yet, notwithstanding the powerful spirit of enterprise, and the vast sums expended and appropriated by the states of Pennsylvania and Maryland to divert the trade of this and other western states to their respective capitals, and the increasing facilities for the navigation of the Ohio and Mississippi to New Orleans; still, the peculiarly favorable position of the city of New-York, together with the gigantic schemes of internal improvement, formed by the state of New York and the western states, aided by unparalleled natural advantages,—must give to the "commercial emporium" the largest share of the commerce of this rich and rapidly increasing part of our country. By a report of the Auditor of this state, for 1830, the amount of taxable property was $64,580,655. Among the items of taxes for 1830, $226,716 are for state and canal, and $224,267 for county and school. Total tax for 1830, $559,074. Bank capital, $1,600,000.

INDIANA.

This state was formerly a part of the north western territory. It was erected into a territorial government in 1800. it is bounded north and north west by Michigan territory and lake; east by Ohio; south by Kentucky, or the Ohio river; and west by Illinois. It lies between 37° 47' and 41° 46' north Lat. and 84° 43' and 87° 55' west Lon. The face of this country is more level than that of Ohio: Its productions are much the same, although there is not so large a proportion of good land.

Yet there are parts of this state not exceeded in fertility by any country; the vegetable soil has in many places measured 22 feet in depth. The most striking feature in the geography of Indiana is the Prairies, or natural meadows, which extend over a large portion of the state. They are destitute of trees, and covered with grass and wild flowers, of 6 or 8 feet high. These prairies cover a vast extent of country north west of the Ohio, and also on the west of the Mississippi. They afford pastureage to countless herds of buffaloes, deer, and various other wild animals.

Its principal river is the Wabash which is boatable for 340 miles. This river approaches within nine miles of the navigable waters of Lake Erie: It falls into the Ohio 128 miles above the junction of that river with the Mississippi, or 1105 miles from New Orleans. A canal is in progress between the Wabash and the Maumee, which falls into Lake Erie; which, when accomplished, will afford Indiana a safe and easy intercourse with New York.

Vincennes and Indianapolis are flourishing towns; the former is on the Wabash; in N. Lat. 39° 47' and W. Lon. 85° 58'. The course of the trade of this state is at present down the Ohio and Mississippi to New Orleans: one thirty sixth part of the public lands in this state are appropriated for the support of schools.

ILLINOIS.

There is no section of our country of equal extent whose soil and climate are so well adapted to all kinds of agricultural purposes, or whose water communications with the ocean are more numerous and important than those of Illinois. The face of this country is generally either prairie, or rolling, rather than hilly land; it is mostly level in its eastern section. There is but little if any waste land in this state; and at this period there are large portions of its territory, of superior soil and climate, densely covered with forest timber, for sale at prices well worthy the attention of the settler or speculator. Illinois river, which traverses the whole of the centre of this state, and falls into the Mississippi 36 miles above St. Louis, 1184 above New Orleans, is a subject of curiosity, in as much as it is the natural link between the almost boundless waters of the Mississippi basin, and those of the western lakes. The distance from the mouth of the Illinois to Chicago, on Michigan lake, is upwards of 400 miles, yet the fall from a summit level on that river, both to the Mississippi and to lake Michigan does not exceed 60 feet. Loaded boats of considerable size pass on that river, to and from those distant waters, in the season of freshets, without any effort of art to facilitate the navigation.

But few sections of the globe can compare with this state in its natural water communications and in the choice of markets which these communications afford. A safe, expeditious, and probably as cheap a method as a traveller from the eastern and northern sections of the U. S. can adopt to reach Vandalia, the capital of Illinois, with or without heavy baggage, is to take the Erie canal at Albany to Buffalo, 363 miles; thence to the mouth of the Maumee river in Ohio, at the S.W. extremity of that lake, about 250 miles; thence up the Maumee 80 miles to a portage of 5 miles to the Wabash; then down the Wabash about 240 miles to Palestine, Illinois, and from thence to Vandalia about 80 miles by land. Whole distance from Albany to Vandalia 1018 miles. Passage from Albany to Buffalo by canal boats, $5; from Buffalo to Sandusky bay, or Detroit, by sleep navigation about $3. Freight from New York to Albany, 144 miles, $2 20, from Albany to Buffalo $20, and from Buffalo to Sandusky, or Detroit, $5 60 per ton. Freight down to Albany about 50 per cent. less. Transportation on the interior rivers about the same as on the canal, and land carriage rather less than in New England. When the Miami canal is finished, from the Maumee to Cincinnati, a good passage may be obtained that way; but the distance, if not the expense, will be much increased.

When it is considered that the insurance by river, canal and lake navigation is very trifling, and the passage for eight months in the year, certain; whilst the insurance to and up the Mississippi is very considerable, and the passage circuitous, slow and uncertain; the northern route to and from this region is decidedly preferable.

The reflection has been naturally suggested, that "if we glance an eye over the immense regions thus connected; if we regard the fertility of soil, the multiplicity of product which characterize those regions; and if we combine these advantages afforded by nature, with the moral energy of the free and active people who are spreading their increasing millions over its surface, what a vista through the darkness of future time opens upon us! We see arts, science, industry, virtue and social happiness, already increasing in those countries beyond what the most inflated fancy would have dared to hope thirty or forty years ago." The mouth of the Maumee in Sandusky bay is 565 feet above the tide waters at Albany; and the fall of the Ohio and Mississippi from Pittsburgh to New Orleans is 500 feet. Illinois lies between lat. 36° 57' and 42° 30' N. and in lon. 87° 12' and 91° 5' W. Bounded N. by the N. W. territory; E. by Indiana; S. by Kentucky; and W. by Missouri.

MISSOURI.

This state is bounded N. E. and S. E. by the Mississippi river; S. by the territory of Arkansas; and W. and N. by the western appropriated territory of the U. S. formerly a part of Louisiana. Between Lat. 36° and 40° 36' N. and Lon. 88° 25' and 94° 10' W. The territory of this state was formerly a part of Louisiana. The first white settlements were made by the French in 1760. St. Louis was first settled in 1763; but this country having changed masters, passing from France to Spain, and then from Spain to France, grew in population and importance but slowly until the cession of it to the U. S. by France in 1803. There is perhaps no region of country in the world, of the extent of Missouri, that can compare in the magnitude, number and navigable facilities of its rivers. St. Louis, or some place in its vicinity, seems destined by nature to become an important mart of a vastly extended country. The soil of Missouri on its numerous rivers, of which the Mississippi, Missouri, Lemaire, St. Francis, Black, Merrimack, and Osage, are the most considerable, is of a quality equal to any in the western country, but the soil of the greater part of the territory is by no means productive. The climate of Missouri is liable to great extremes of heat and cold. In metal and other fossil substances, Missouri is probably the richest region in the U. S. The lead mines of Missouri, which are chiefly in the county of Washington, are considered the most valuable in the known world. The lead from this source is understood during the year 1830, to have completely excluded foreign lead from our markets, unless in very inconsiderable quantities. From the various lead mines of the U. S. nearly 15 millions pounds were produced in 1829. When this state was admitted into the union, a great effort was made to interdict slavery within its territory: but the friends of slavery prevailed.

MICHIGAN TERRITORY.

This territory includes a peninsula formed by Lakes Huron, St. Clair and Erie on the north east, Lake Michigan on the west, and bounded south by the states of Ohio and Indiana, and also the extensive tract of country between the Mississippi, and the Lakes Superior and Michigan. From the fertility of the soil, the goodness of the climate, and the ease with which produce can be transported by lake, canal, and river navigation to New York, it cannot be doubted that this territory will soon become an important member of the union. Indeed it possesses singular advantages for the most extensive inland commerce, and is already the centre of the north western fur trade. The face of the country is generally flat, or gently rolling. There is much that is extremely fertile; but the coldness and great length of the winter will probably obstruct its settlement till the more southern regions of the Ohio shall be filled.

Detroit is the principal place of business in Michigan. It is situated on a strait between lakes Erie and St. Clair, 18 miles from the former, and 9 miles below the latter. Detroit was first settled by the French in 1670, and has ever been a point of country of considerable interest. The passage of the strait of St. Clair, in summer months, is very pleasant, the banks fertile and well cultivated, the water gentle and of sufficient depth for ships of great burthen. Freight from Detroit to the city of New York, 837 miles, $14 per ton. Insurance about ½ per cent. Detroit is in N. Lat. 42° 24', and W. Lon. 82° 58', and 526 miles from Washington.

This territory is situated between 41° 31' and 46° 51' North Lat. and 82° 18' and 87° 25' West Lon.

ARKANSAS TERRITORY.

This territory was formed out of ancient Louisiana, and became a territory of the U. S. in 1819. It is bounded east by the river Mississippi; south by Louisiana and Red river; west by Texas; and north by the unappropriated territory of the U. S. and by Missouri. It extends about 550 miles from east to west, and between N. Lat. 33° and 36° 30'. The first settlements in the Louisiana country were made in this territory. From the great extent of this territory, the face of the country, the soil and the climate are much diversified. A chain of mountains passes through Arkansas from N. E. to S. W. and extends into Texas. The country S. E. of the mountains is low and liable to annual submerision. To the N. W. the country presents a large expanse of prairie, without wood, except on the borders of rivers. As low at Lat. 35° the thermometer ranges from 97° above, to 20° below zero. Arkansas has a large portion of land of great fertility, which produces cotton, wheat, corn, cattle, with a great variety of fruits and vegetables. Large quantities of iron ore, gypsum, and common salt are found in this territory. Arkansas, its principal river, and after the Missouri, the largest and longest tributary of the Mississippi, rises in the Rocky mountains, and after meandering a great distance traverses this territory nearly in the centre and falls into the Mississippi 591 miles above New Orleans.

White river is also very considerable: a steam boat from the Mississippi arrived at Batesville, on that river, about 400 miles distant, on the 4th of January 1831.

Little Rock is the capital, and the principal deposit of the trade of this territory: Little Rock is on the Arkansas river, about 120 miles above its mouth. The Hot Springs of Arkansas have become famous for their medicinal virtues. They are situated near the forks of the Wachitta river, and are much frequented. The land around them is called "the land of peace;" and tribes of Indians unfriendly to each other, on arriving at this place, always suspend hostilities.

FLORIDA TERRITORY.

This territory is bounded north by Georgia; east by the Atlantic ocean; south by the gulf of Mexico; and west by the same gulf and Alabama. This is the most southern part of the U. S. It is divided into East and West Florida; the former is on the Atlantic ocean and has St. Augustine for its capital, in Lat. 29° 45' N. and Lon. 81° 30' W. The latter is on the gulf of Mexico and has Pensacola for its capital, in Lat. 30° 28' N. and Lon. 88° 12' W. Both are however under one territorial government. Florida was discovered in 1512, and was first settled by the French, in 1562. In 1639 it was conquered by Spain. Although Florida is a peninsula of more than 1000 miles outline of sea coast, only 120 miles mean breadth, and less in size than the state of Illinois, yet owing to the indolence or inattention of its former possessors, a large portion of its territory is but imperfectly known. From the best sources it appears that the soil of Florida is of an inferior quality, excepting those sections of it near and along its streams. The vegetable productions of Florida are numerous and valuable; cotton, indigo, rice, sugar-cane, indian corn and tobacco; also the olive, orange, lime, peach and fig tree are already cultivated with success. It is supposed that the coffee plant would flourish here. The live oak and laurel magnolia are indigenous. The capitals of Florida are its chief marts of trade. Both have good harbors; Pensacola is also a depot of the American navy.

The small island of Key West is near the coast of Florida, in the gulf of Mexico, a rendezvous for ships of war and merchantmen, the most southerly settlement of the U. S. in Lat. 24° 34' N. and Lon. 81° 33' W.

The climate of Florida is soft and delicious, rarely suffering from extreme cold, and constantly refreshed by sea breezes from the Atlantic or the gulf of Mexico. Invalids from all parts of the U. S. resort to St. Augustine for health, and are generally benefited by the air. Bank at Tallahassee, in Lat. 30° 23' N. and Lon. 84° 36' W. capital $600,000. Pensacola is 1050, and St. Augustine 841 miles from Washington.

This territory was ceded to Great Britain in 1763, and in 1781 it was again recovered by Spain.

GREAT WESTERN TERRITORY.

With the exception of a number of trading houses, and military posts, this territory is peopled only by the natives of the forest. Its government, for temporary purposes, is connected with that of Michigan. The best account of the character of the natives, the soil, climate and rivers of this country is found in the journal of Lewis & Clark, who under the direction of the national government, traversed this immense region, over the rocky mountains to the Columbia river on the Pacific ocean, in the years 1804, '5 and '6, and in a later account by Major Long, who, with an exploring party visited the valley of the Missouri in 1823.

Our knowledge however of this territory is at present quite limited; but as a part of the soil is known to be very good, the face of the country rather undulating than hilly, the climate mild for its latitude, particularly on the western side of the mountains, and the passage of the Rocky mountains less difficult than has been supposed, other states and territories like Ohio, Illinois and Michigan will doubtless arise in this distant, but highly interesting section of the territory of the U. S. Large quantities of furs and peltry are collected in this territory and sent to Detroit.

This territory has a western outline on the Pacific ocean of about 500 miles. The Columbia, Oregon, or River of the West is estimated to be about 1600 miles long; it rises in the Rocky mountains in Lat. about 55° N. and falls into the Pacific ocean in Lat. 46° 19' N. and Lon. 123° 54' W.; and is navigable 183 miles from its mouth, to which distance the tide flows.

This river is also navigable a great distance above tide water, after passing some short narrows, rapids and falls. The Oregon territory, so called, is that portion of this country lying west of the Rocky mountains. From the mouth of the Columbia to Washington is about 3,100 miles.

When the Indian titles to these unappropriated lands of the U. S. are extinguished, 150 states may be formed of larger territory than that of Massachusetts.

THE GREAT LAKES.

These immense waters, whose centre generally makes the boundary line between the United States and the Canadas, have a natural outlet to the Atlantic ocean, by the river and gulf of St. Lawrence. An assemblage of such vast fresh water seas, the immense basin or country in which they are embodied, the great arteries which supply them, and the rapid increase of population within this basin; together with their relative position between two powerful nations, deserve a few remarks even in this brief outline of the United States.

Passing from the sea up the St. Lawrence, the first important place we meet is Quebec, the "Gibraltar of America," about 400 miles from the sea, in Latitude 46° 47' N. and 71° 10' W. Longitude. The St. Lawrence is navigable for the largest vessels to Quebec, and even to Montreal, in Latitude 45° 31' N. and Longitude 73° 35' W. 166 miles above Quebec, for vessels of 400 tons. The tide flows to within 60 miles of Montreal; a greater distance than it is known to flow in any other river in the world. From Montreal to Ogdensburg, one of the termini of a contemplated rail-road from Boston, a distance of 120 miles, the St. Lawrence is in many places very rapid and of difficult navigation. From Ogdensburg to Lewiston, the most northern and western points of navigation on Lake Ontario, is about 290 miles. This lake covers an area of 5,100,000 acres, and is navigable for the largest ships. Passing the great cataract of Niagara, from Lewiston to Buffalo, is 28 miles. From Buffalo to Detroit, is about 330 miles. Lake Erie covers an area of 7,680,000 acres; but its depth of water is not so great as that of Ontario. A large amount of tonnage is employed on this lake; and its commerce, as well as that of Ontario, is rapidly increasing.

The strait of St. Clair, 27 miles long, on which Detroit is built, connects this lake with those of St. Clair, Huron, Michigan, and Superior. The St. Clair covers an area of about 800,000, and Huron about 12,800,000 acres. Lake Michigan is about 300 miles long, and covers an area of 9,000,000 acres. This lake is wholly within the limits of the United States. Michigan is connected with Huron by the strait of Michilimackinack, 40 miles long, which, with the lake, is navigable for large vessels. Mackinaw is an island in this strait, a place of considerable trade, has a custom house, and is a port of entry.

Passing from Lake Huron by the strait of St. Mary, about 40 miles long, and having a fall of about 23 feet, we come to Lake Superior, the largest fresh water sea in the known world. This lake is elevated above the tide waters of the Atlantic ocean, in the Gulf of St. Lawrence, 641 feet; and covers an area of 19,200,000 acres. From the northern and western extremity of this lake, to the mouth of the Gulf of the St. Lawrence, is about 1800 miles; and the whole area covered by the waters of the lakes mentioned, is 54½ million acres, or 85,155 square miles.

Great and laudable exertions are making by the British government and the people of the Canadas to draw the trade of this immense basin to Montreal and Quebec. More than a million of dollars has already been expended on the Welland canal to unite lakes Erie and Ontario by sloop navigation round the falls of Niagara: the distance is 42 miles; and the elevation of lake Erie, above Ontario, is 334 feet. When we consider the many and great difficulties attending the navigation of the St. Lawrence, it is confidently believed that our canal and rail-road systems, particularly the latter, will prove the best medium of commercial operations between this basin and the ocean.

INDIANS IN THE UNITED STATES.—It is calculated that there are 313,130 Indians within the limits of the United States: viz. in Maine, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, and Virginia, 2,573; New York, 4,820; Pennsylvania, 300; North Carolina, 3,100; South Carolina, 300; Georgia, 5,000; Tennessee, 1,000; Ohio, 1,877; Mississippi, 23,400; Alabama, 19,200; Louisiana, 939; Indiana, 4,050; Illinois, 5,900; Missouri, 5,631; Michigan, 9,340; Arkansas, 7,200; Florida, 4,000; in the country east of the river Mississippi, north of Illinois, and west of the three upper Lakes, 20,200; west of the Mississippi, east of the Rocky Mountains, and not included in the states of Louisiana or Missouri, or the territory of Arkansas, 94,300; within the Rocky Mountains, 20,000; and west of the Rocky Mountains, between latitude 44° to 49°, 80,000. The United States have acquired of the Indians, by treaty at various times, in different states, 209,219,865 acres of land. The United States pay to different tribes permanent annuities, amounting to $142,525, and annuities limited to end in ten years, $163,325.

CENSUS OF THE UNITED STATES---1830.

THE seats of government of the several states are printed in SMALL CAPITALS; and the county towns, or seats, in Italics. The first figures give the population of the county in 1820; the second, the population of the county in 1830: Then is given the population of the county town, 1830, with its course and distance from some noted town, or the capital of the state, and its distance from Washington; and then is given the population in 1830, of as many of the largest towns, in each county, as the limits of this work will permit. The population is taken chiefly from official sources: The distances are from the "Table of the Post Offices" for 1831.

The population of Albany in 1810 was 9,356; of Troy, 3,885; of Utica, 1,700; of Buffalo, 1,508; of Brooklyn, 4,402; and of Rochester, in 1830, 1,502. There were in this state, in 1830, 34,821 more white males than females: In the six New England states, at the same period, there were 23,622 more white females than males. There were in this state 52 persons of 100 years and upwards; 855 deaf and dumb; 724 blind; and 52,488 aliens.

The Presbyterians and Congregationalists have 1,000 ministers; the Episcopalians, 143; Baptists, 310; Reformed Dutch, 98; Methodists, 357; Lutherans, 15; and there are 89 ministers of other denominations—total, 1,470. There are 120 churches and meeting-houses in the city of New-York. There are in the state 1,806 Attorneys and Counsellors, and 2,580 Physicians and Surgeons. The number of newspapers published in this state, is 256, of which 18 are daily papers; requiring 16 million sheets annually. The number of newspapers published in the United States in 1775, was 37; the number published in Great Britain in 1839, was 325.

This state owns the Erie, Champlain, Oswego, Chemung, and the Crooked Lake canals, whose aggregate length is 530 miles. The 4 first are in operation, and cost $10,946,444. The canal debt, after deducting the canal fund, amounted, Sept. 30, 1831, to $5,815,595. The net income from tolls, after deducting interest on loans, extensive improvements, repairs and all other expenses, was, in 1830, $415,448. In 1831, the net income was $766,731. In 1830, 12,890 canal boats arrived at, and departed from Albany, bringing to that place, 104,500 tons of bread stuffs, ashes, glass, lime, provisions and whiskey; besides large quantities of timber, lumber, wood, &c.; and taking from thence 39,972 tons of merchandise. In 1831, 14,963 canal boats arrived and departed as above: The increase of toll, that year, was $166,990. The Erie canal was commenced July 4, 1817; navigated, in part, July 1, 1820, and completed October, 1825. There are 15 canal companies in this state. The Hudson and Delaware canal, from the Hudson river, 90 miles above New-York, leading to the coal region in Penn. is 108 miles long, with 16 miles of rail-road and 32 miles of canal, and brought to the water on the canal, in 1831. There are 30 incorporated rail-road companies in this state, whose aggregate capital is $36,295,000. The valuation of this state in 1831 was $364,715,830; of which $97,221,870 was of property in the city of New-York. Bank capital, $24,033,460; insurance stock, about 15,000,000. School fund, about $2,000,000. There are 4 colleges in this state, whose aggregate number of Alumni is about 2,500; Under-graduates, 500. There are 55 incorporated academies, and 9,383 school districts; in the latter, 509,731 children receive annually 8 months' instruction, making about 1 person at school for 3 1-2 of the whole population. In England, about 1 for 15 of the whole population is kept at school; in France, 1 for 17; and in Russia, 1 for 367. The number of arrivals at the port of New-York in 1831 was 1,634; passengers, 31,739; net revenue on foreign imports, 17 and 18 million dollars.

Among the numerous literary, religious, and charitable institutions for which the state and city of New-York are distinguished, the American Bible Society takes a high stand. This society was formed in 1816, is located in the city of N. York, and has a Board of 36 Managers, all laymen, from several religious denominations. It has 17 steam-power printing presses, and large and commodious buildings. This society has 838 auxiliaries scattered throughout the Union. The number of Bibles and Testaments issued from its formation to May, 1832, was 1,442,500; issues in 1831, 115,802; receipts in 1831, $107,099. Hon. John C. Smith, President.

The salt springs at Onondaga lake are the property of the state: 45 gallons of the water produce a bushel of salt: 350 galls of sea water is required to produce the same quantity. The manufacturers pay a duty to the state of 12 1-2 cents per bushel. The quantity made in 1831, was 1,514,037 bushels; of which 183,000 were coarse salt of the purest quality.

The mineral springs at Ballston and Saratoga are numerous, but generally contain the same substances, only in a greater or less quantity. The most celebrated of these springs is the Congress, at Saratoga, which has given, in analysis, 471.5 grains muriate of soda; 178.4 3-4 carbonate of lime; 16.5 car. of soda; 3 1-2 car. of magnesia, and 6 1-3 car. of iron, to one gallon of water: carbonic acid gas, 343 cubic inches. Temperature through the year, 50° of Fahrenheit.

The population of Philadelphia in 1731 was 12,000; in 1753, 18,000; in 1790, 42,520; in 1800, 70,287; in 1810, 96,664; and in 1820, 119,325. The population of Pittsburgh, in 1800, 15,565; in 1830, between 17 and 18,000, including the suburbs. There were in this state in 1830, 117,120 wh. males, and 112,065 do. females, under 5 years of age—74,351 wh. males, and 76,649 do. females, of 15 and under 20—120,862 wh. males, and 115,423 do. females, of 20 and under 30—46,536 wh. males, and 44,222 do. females, of 40 and under 50—28,960 wh. males, and 27,749 do. females, of 50 and under 60—1,919 wh. males, and 2,032 do. females, of 60 and under 90—217 wh. males, and 236 do. females, of 90 and under 100—and 37 wh. males, and 20 do. females, of 100 years and upwards. There were 712 white, and 36 colored persons, deaf and dumb—443 white, and 28 colored persons who were blind—and 15,365 aliens.

There are 7 Universities or Colleges in this state, the oldest of which is the University of Pennsylvania, in Philadelphia, founded in 1755, and of which W. H. De Lancey, D. D. is President.

The societies of Friends in this state are quite numerous; the Episcopalians have 60 ministers; the Presbyterians 429 churches, 248 clergy, and 38,873 communicants; the Baptists, 144 churches, 96 ministers, and 7,561 communicants; the Methodists, 140 preachers and 46,390 members; the German Reformed Church, 282 churches, and 73 ministers. The Associate Presbyterians, 39 congregations, 18 ministers, and 4,180 communicants; the Evangelical Lutherans, 2 synods; the Dutch Reformed Church, 6 churches and 6 ministers; the United Brethren have about 15 congregations; the Unitarians, 5 congregations and 3 ministers; the Roman Catholics are numerous, and there are some Universalists, Jews, and other sects. Nothing can better illustrate the wise policy of the people of this state, than a good map of Pennsylvania. We there find canals and railroads intersecting the extensive and fertile territory of this state in almost every direction, crossing the Alleghany mountains to the Ohio river; reaching the northern and western lakes, and bringing the boundless treasures of her coal mines, and a vast inland commerce, to the banks of the Schuylkill and Delaware. Aggregate length of the canals in this state in 1831, 728 miles. State debt, $12,512,550—state property, same year, $15,174,187.

About a mile and a half from the centre of Philadelphia, stands Fair Mount, a beautiful and lasting monument of the enterprize and wisdom of the people of that city. At that place a dam is thrown across the river Schuylkill 900 feet in length. Suitable buildings are erected below, on the margin of the river, in which are a number of forcing pumps, which raise the water to a number of reservoirs on the top of the Mount, 102 feet above the surface of the river, and 56 feet above the highest ground in the city. These reservoirs constantly contain from 8 to 12 million gallons of water, and from 60 to 70 miles of pipe lead it into every section of the city. Ten million gallons can be raised daily. About two million gallons daily is the usual demand in summer months. The cost of the present works was $432,512. Revenue in 1829, $56,693. Since the city has been thus supplied with pure and wholesome water, the yellow fever has been almost a stranger within its limits.

DELAWARE.—KENT Co. 20,793—19,911. Dover, 114 from W. NEWCASTLE Co. 27,899—29,710. New-Castle, 42 N. 103. Wilmington, 47 N. 108. SUSSEX Co. 24,057—27,118. Georgetown, 40 S. E. 122.

There were in this state in 1830, 4,747 white males, and 4,646 do. females, under 5 years of age—3,179 white males, and 3,380 do. females, of 15 and under 20—2,036 wh. males, and 2,047 do. females, of 40 and under 50—201 wh. males and 263 do. females, of 70 and under 80—1 white female of 100 and upwards. There were 574 male slaves, and 506 female do. under 10 years of age—257 male slaves and 241 female do. of 24 and under 36—44 male slaves, and 49 female do. of 55 and under 100—and 3 slaves of each sex of 100 and upwards.

The Delaware and Chesapeake Canal, 13 1-2 miles in length, from Delaware city, on the Delaware river, 45 miles below Philadelphia, to a branch of the Chesapeake bay, about 10 miles from Baltimore, is a work of great national importance, inasmuch as it unites the great waters of the Delaware and Chesapeake by a safe navigation for sea vessels of ten feet draught of water, thus avoiding a tedious and often dangerous passage round Cape Charles, of between three and four hundred miles. For the year ending June 1, 1831, 5,280 passages of vessels of different descriptions were made through this canal, with passengers, and merchandise of various kinds. The tolls received that year amounted to $62,923. The cost of this canal exceeds two millions. The Rail-road from Newcastle on the Delaware to Frenchtown, Md. 16 miles, crossing this state in nearly the same direction with the canal, is in operation, and greatly facilitates the progress of travellers.

The population of this state in 1660 was 12,000—in 1701, 25,000—and in 1763, 70,000 whites. The pop. of Baltimore in 1775, was 5,934—in 1790, 13,503—in 1800, 26,614—in 1810, 46,555—and in 1820, 62,732. There were in this state in 1830, 23,732 white males, and 22,355 do. females, under 5 years of age—29,390 white males, and 27,245 females, of 20 and under 30—24 white, and 238 colored persons, of 100 years and upwards—132 white and 82 colored persons, deaf and dumb—156 white, and 117 colored persons, blind—and 4,233 aliens.

The Baltimore and Ohio Rail-road, from Baltimore to Cincinnati, 250 miles in length, will soon be completed; a considerable part of it is now in successful operation.

DISTRICT OF COLUMBIA.—WASHINGTON City and County, 15,976—21,830. Georgetown, 7,360—8,398. ALEXANDRIA and County, 9,703—9,608. There were in this District, 1830, 2,345 white males, and 2,182 do. females, under 5 years; 2,705 wh. males, and 2,864 do. females, of 20 and under 30; 1,917 wh. males, and 1,751 do. females, of 30 and under 40; 25 wh. males, and 30 do. females, of 80 and under 90; and 1 white, and 3 colored male, and 2 colored females, of 100 years and upwards; 12 white, and 3 colored persons, deaf and dumb; and 14 white, and 8 colored persons, blind; aliens, 673.

The City of Washington was planned under the direction of George Washington, in 1791, with his usual taste and judgment. The population of this city in 1800 was 3,210,—of which 623 were slaves, and 193 free colored persons; in 1820, 9,666 whites, 1,945 slaves, and 1,696 free colored persons; and in 1830, 13,379 whites, 2,319 slaves, and 3,138 free colored persons.

The Capitol in Washington is in a commanding position, 73 feet above tide water, and covers one and a half acres and 1,820 square feet of land, exclusive of its circular enclosure, and elegant arched and glacial on the west front.

The President's House is 180 feet long by 85 wide, of free stone, 2 stories high, with a lofty basement. It occupies an elevated situation, in the centre of a large reservation of ground,—commanding a view to the south, extremely beautiful and picturesque. The number of public buildings in this city in 1831 was 65; total number of buildings, 3,708; of which there were 19 for public worship, viz. for the Episcopalians, 3; Presbyterians, 4; Catholics, 2; Methodists, 3; Friends, 1; Baptists, 3; Unitarians, 1; and Africans, 2.

The expenditures in this city for the accommodation of the Government of the United States are $4,254,858. The Capitol alone has cost $2,432,844. The sales of, and present value of unsold lands, wharves, &c. in Washington, belonging to the United States, with donations from Virginia and Maryland of $192,000, amount to $4,139,846. The U. S. property in Washington is not taxed for city purposes.

Columbia College, about 1 1/2 miles north of the President's House,—in full view of the city and surrounding country, on a plot of land of 47 acres,—was founded 1821. Instructors, 4—Undergraduates, 50—Vols. in Libraries, 4,000. Stephen Chapin, D. D. President. The number of deaths in Washington in 1831, 187 adults, 193 children,—total, 380.

S. Total American tonnage in 1829, 1,260,798.

In 1829, 57,284 tons of shipping were engaged in the whale fishery; and 100,796 tons in other fisheries. The total amount of duties collected on American tonnage, in 1829, was $1,732,034. The tonnage of vessels built, registered and enrolled, in the U. S. in 1829, was 77,098 tons.

ARMY OF THE UNITED STATES.—Lewis Cass, Secretary of War; Alexander Macomb, Major General; Edmund P. Gaines, Winfield Scott, and Thomas S. Jessup, Brigadier Generals; Colonel Nathan Towson, Paymaster General; Joseph Lovell, Surgeon General; and Charles Gratiot, Chief Engineer. The army consists of four regiments of artillery, and seven regiments of infantry. The western department of the army is under the command of General Gaines, the eastern, under the command of General Scott. The whole army consists of 6,190 officers and men. There are 58 military posts and arsenals in the United States, besides others in a state of forwardness. In times of foreign invasion, insurrection, or rebellion, the militia of the several states is under the command of the general government. The number of which, in 1830, is stated in the table.

The Military Academy at West Point, in New York, was established in 1802. Colonel Sylvanus Thayer, is Superintendent and Commandant. The number of cadets is limited to 250. The academy is generally full. From the establishment of this institution to September 2, 1823, there had been 1289 cadets admitted; 540 commissioned; 477 resigned; 162 discharged; 20 had died; and in 1830, 213 remained. The cost of this establishment to 1828, was $1,185,421.

From 1795 to 1817 inclusive, there were made at the Armory, at Harper's Ferry, Vir. 82,727 muskets, 11,870 repaired, and 4,100 pistols; at Springfield, Mass., there were made 128,559 muskets, 1,202 carbines, and 45,800 repaired. The expenses at the latter place for purchases, buildings, repairs, &c. was $1,820,122. After sundry deductions being made, the actual cost of a musket was estimated at $13,56.

POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT OF THE U. S.—William T. Barry, Post Master General. Salary $6,000—(the same as to the Secretaries of the Treasury, Army, and Navy.)

In the year 1790, there were 75 Post Offices in the United States, 1875 miles of post roads: the receipts of the Post Office were $37,935, expenditures $32,140. In 1800, there were 903 Post Offices, 20,817 miles of post roads: receipts $280,804, expenditures $213,994. In 1810, there were 2300 Post Offices, 36,406 miles of post roads: receipts $551,684, expenditures $495,969. In 1820, there were 4,500 Post Offices, 72,492 miles of post roads: receipts $1,111,927, expenditures $1,160,926. In 1829, there were 8,004 Post Offices, 115,000 miles of post roads: receipts $1,850,583, expenditures $1,932,708. The mail, in 1831, was transported by coaches, steam boats, sulkies, and on horseback 15,468,692 miles. Rates of Postage:—for every letter of a single sheet, not over 30 miles, 6 cents; over 30 to 80 miles, 10 cents; over 80 to 150 miles, 12½ cents; over 150 to 400 miles, 18½ cents; over 400 miles, 25 cents. Double, triple, and quadruple letters, in the same ratio. No letter can be charged with more than quadruple postage, unless its weight exceeds one ounce avoirdupois.

Newspapers, or one sheet of printed paper, not over 100 miles to any state, and to any distance in the state where printed, 1 cent; over 100 miles out of the state where printed, 1½ cents. Magazines and pamphlets, for every 100 miles, 4 cents per sheet; over 100 miles, 6 cents. If published periodically, for 100 miles, 1½ cents; over 100 miles, 2½ cents. There are between 60 and 70 persons employed in this office. About 10,000 accounts are balanced and settled quarterly. Upwards of 350,000 dead letters were returned to this office in 1829. The revenue arising from the General Post Office, has, in a great measure, been expended in the extension and improvement of the establishment.

The privilege of franking, and receiving letters free of postage, is given to the following persons, viz.

President and Vice Pres't. of U. S. Sect's. of State, Treasury, War, and Navy; P. M. General and Ass'ts P. M. Gen. Att'y. Gen., Compt's. of the Treasury, Aud't's., Reg. Treas., Comm'r. of the Gen. Land Office, Ex-Presidents of the U. S., Members of Congress (during the Session, and 60 days before and after the same,) Comm's. of the Navy Board, Adj't. Gen. Comm'y. Gen. Insp's. Gen. Quart. Mas. Gen. Pay Mast. Gen. Sect'y. of the Senate, Clerk of the H. of Rep. Sup't. of the Patent Office; and P. Masters, not to exceed half an ounce in weight, and one daily newspaper.

UNITED STATES MINT.—This institution commenced operations in 1792, at Philadelphia, where it has always been located. A spacious and splendid edifice for its accommodation was commenced in that city in 1829, and is now completed. The coinage effected from the time of its establishment to 1829, was 109,278,031 pieces of gold, silver, and copper, amounting to $32,176,825 37. The coinage at the mint in 1830, amounted to 8,357,191 pieces—value $3,155,620. It is to be hoped, that the mode of computing by pounds, shillings, and pence, will be abolished; and that pistoriens, shilling, nine-penny, seven-penny half-penny, and eleven-penny bits will soon, by means of this institution, assume the more convenient form of the federal coins.

An eagle of gold, valued at $10, must weigh 11 penny-weights and 6 grains. A dollar must weigh 17 penny-weights and 7 grains of silver; and a cent must weigh 11 penny-weights of copper. All coins ceased to be a legal tender in the United States on the 15th October, 1797, except federal coins and Spanish milled dollars.

UNITED STATES BANK.—This bank was incorporated March 3, 1816. It is located at Philadelphia. It has a capital of 35 millions of dollars, which is divided into 350,000 shares, of $100 each. Its charter expires in 1836. The United States hold 70,000 shares; individuals the residue. Nicholas Biddle is President, and Samuel Jaudon, Cashier. There are 26 branches of this bank now in operation in various parts of the union. The shares of this bank in 1817, were worth 56 per cent. advance, and Oct. 1, 1832, 17 per cent. advance. The old United States Bank was chartered in 1791. Its charter expired in 1811. Its capital was $10,000,000, divided into 25,000 shares: it made an average, annual dividend, of 8½ per cent. during its continuance. In 1809, 18,000 of the shares were held by foreigners.

MINISTERS AND DIPLOMATIC AGENTS OF THE UNITED STATES—Resident in Foreign Countries.—Great Britain—Minister, London. France—William C. Rives, Minister, Paris. Russia—James Buchanan, Minister, St. Petersburg. Spain—Cornelius P. Van Ness, Minister, Madrid. Portugal—Thomas L. L. Brent, Chargé d'Affaires, Lisbon. Netherlands—A. Republic of Peru—Samuel Larned, Chargé d'Affaires, Lima. Republic of Buenos Ayres—Francis Baylies, Chargé d'Affaires. Chili—John Hamm, Chargé d'Affaires, St. Jago de Chili. Barbary Powers—David Porter, Consul General, Algiers. Hayti—Francis M. Dimond, Commercial Agent, Port au Prince.

The pay of Ministers Plenipotentiary is $9,000 outfit, and $9,000 per annum. Chargés d'Affaires receive $4,500, and Secretaries of Legation $2,000 per annum.

PUBLIC LANDS OF THE UNITED STATES.—The public lands within the states and territories of the United States, consist of those lands ceded by many of the states to the United States; the latter taking the responsibility of extinguishing the Indian titles, together with those lands obtained from France by the purchase of Louisiana, and those by the cession of the Floridas from Spain. The number of acres thus acquired by the United States, previous to the 1st of January, 1826, was 314,323,120 acres. From this quantity 55,947,453 acres must be deducted as being the undisputed property of the Indians. The public domain, therefore, at that date, was 210,273,300 acres, after deducting 19,239,412 acres, which had then been sold; 7,708,066 acres appropriated for schools and colleges, and 21,156,889 acres appropriated for military bounties, private claims, and special donations. The cost of these lands to the United States, was $32,911,813. The 19,239,412 acres sold for $40,351,880. The expense incident to that sale, was $1,154,950. From 1826, to June, 1829, 3,227,682 acres more had been sold for $4,236,801. Some has, probably, been sold since. Of the sum paid for these lands by the United States, the Indians have received $3,392,494, and the state of Georgia, $6,200,000. The minimum price of these lands is $1½ per acre; and, since 1820, no credit is given to purchasers. These lands are surveyed before they are offered for sale. They are divided into townships of six miles square, which are divided into 36 sections, one mile square, containing each 640 acres; and sold in sections and parts of sections. One mile square in each township is reserved for a school fund. A large quantity of these lands is surveyed, and for sale at the various land offices in the states where they are located. Elijah Hayward is the land commissioner at Washington, and James M. Moore, chief clerk. These lands lie in the following states and territories: viz. Indiana, Illinois, Missouri, Louisiana, Mississippi, Alabama, Michigan, Arkansas, and east and west Florida. These lands hold out a most inviting prospect to the enterprising emigrant.

The quantity of unceded lands belonging to the Indians, and lying north and west of the states and territories of the United States, but within the limits of the United States, has been estimated at about 750,000,000 acres.
